The story begins with a flashback. In 1999, a common man's name of Vidhi Sharma (Jimmy Shergill) lives happily with his wife, Jaswinder (Anupriya Goenka) in a small village. Vidhi is a very neat and simple man who loves his wife very much. They have been blessed with two children. But Vidhi's wife Jaswinder soon faces some problems in her life. As her sister-in-law Preeti (Krutika Goswami) arrives in the village, her sister is being framed by her sister-in-law. After their arrival, Vidhi's sister-in-law Jaswinder starts working as Vidhi's assistant. On the other hand, the village, too, is facing a problem with their head priest Ram Singh (Boman Irani), who is drunk most of the time, and is cheating the villagers on a daily basis. But all this is good news for Vidhi's family as Vidhi is having his greatest night in his life with his wife and children, after a long time, at a local hotel called "Welcome To Sri Guru Singh".
